Six New Quakes Hit Area of Orleansville

At Least 1,000 Die, 2,000 Hurt In First Shock

Half of City of 50,000 in Ruins; Supplies Flown In

By TONY ARBONA
United Press Staff Correspondent

ORLEANSVILLE, Algeria — Six new earthquakes rocked the ruined city of Orleansville today and struck more terror into this valley of death.

Five times during the black hours before dawn the earth trembled. Then a major shock threatened to collapse the Oued Fodda Dam which holds back 50,000,000 cubic feet of water.

None of the new tremors was as violent as Thursday morning's 12-second earthquake which battered this city of 50,000 and buried more than 1,000 bodies in the Cheffiff River Valley.

Rescue teams estimated more than 1,000 had been crushed to death in their sleep, killed by falling buildings or trampled to death by panic-stricken crowds.

At least 2,000 more were feared injured and some 800 were missing.

Half of Orleansville was a jumble of dusty ruins. Many buildings still standing hung at odd angles on foundations and pillars.

Officials in Algiers announced the death toll stood at "about 1,000" but this tabulation did not include death lists from many native villages leveled by the quakes.

The 1,000 fatality figure was compiled from reports made by rescue teams and assembled by police at Algiers.

At daybreak, troops resumed the work of clearing wreckage and hauling out bodies. Police prevented anyone from going near big buildings still standing.

Road gangs worked on highways which had been torn by fissures and cracks.

Bodies recovered from the rubble at Orleansville were taken into a gymnasium which had been converted into a morgue.

There was difficulty in identifying 40 persons who were killed in the collapse of the Hotel Baudouin because the hotel's registry had disappeared.

Foreign Legion on Patrol
Foreign Legionnaires patrolled dying Orleansville with fixed bayonets to prevent looting.

The electrical plant was out of order but an emergency telephone office had been built out of rough planks and communications with Algiers and Oran were restored.

French officials said three tons of bread and 4 1/2 tons of other provisions were flown into Orleansville to feed the homeless. Fifty soup kitchens were established and 2,500 persons fed Thursday.

Five hundred persons responded to a blood donor call in Algiers and Gov. Gen. Roger Leonard announced enough plasma was on hand at the moment to take care of most urgent cases.

CLIFTON, Ill. — Five business establishments in a two-story brick building were destroyed and a sixth, a garage in a separate structure, was damaged by a fire today.

Firemen from eight departments in this and surrounding communities battled the flames for three hours.

UP President Sees Germany With Own Army

Baillie Says Will Have It Regardless Of NATO or EDC

SAN DIEGO (UP)—Germany will have its own army and air force regardless of NATO, EDC or any other organization, in the opinion of Hugh Baillie, president of the United Press.

"The Western powers cannot let Germany slip behind the Iron Curtain," Baillie said in a televised interview from KEMB, San Diego. "Therefore, they cannot let Russia outbid them for the German military potential, although you may hear a lot of talk along these lines in the next few weeks."

"The Germans themselves are much more favorably disposed to the West and Germany's strength is growing faster than that of any other country in Europe."

"The situation in the Far East," Baillie said, "is caused by Russia's conviction that the United States won't fight or even retaliate very strongly. The Russian spies in this country have been telling the Kremlin that the Americans would rather go to the ball game than go to war and the Russians, of course, misinterpret that as weakness. Hence we have them and their Chinese allies acting tough. Also, they hear about our home-loan scandals and juvenile delinquency and conclude that our country is decadent."

"This is the same mistake as was made by Hitler, the Kaiser and the Japanese war leaders at Pearl Harbor."

Cairo Soybean Mill Strikebound 11 Weeks, To Resume Shortly

CAIRO, Ill. (UP)—The Swift & Co. processing mill for soybeans and cotton seed here will resume operations in two or three days after being strikebound for nearly 11 weeks, company officials said today.

The strike of the CIO United Gas, Coke and Chemical Workers Union ended Thursday when agreement was reached on a new contract revising a seniority plan for employees and adding some fringe benefits to the contract. Wages were not an issue in the walkout.

The oil mill employs 150 to 200 workers at its peak season which began a week ago. Since then, soybeans and cotton seed usually processed here were sent to other mills.

McCarthy's FBI Letter to Get Into Evidence

Senate Committee, However, Won't Make Its Contents Public

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Senate's special committee agreed today to receive in evidence Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy's famous "FBI letter." But it declined on security grounds to make it public.

The committee, weighing charges against McCarthy, announced its decision after examining the document in its second closed session of the day.

Chairman Arthur V. Watkins (R-Utah) also had discussed it by phone with Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell Jr.

McCarthy earlier had rested his defense when the committee, at a seven-minute morning session, agreed to "inspect" the letter privately to determine whether it could be accepted for the record and disclosed publicly.

Flanders in Closed Meeting
Sen. Ralph E. Flanders (R-Vt.), sponsor of the original censure motion, also went into the closed meeting. He said he wanted to see about other charges which the committee has not actively considered.

Flanders asked the committee to consider a new and undisclosed accusation against McCarthy. But, he said, the committee told him it was not authorized to accept new charges beyond those referred to them by the Senate.

The committee recessed after a seven-minute morning session without making any decision on that matter. But the committee's counsel was directed to start cross-examination of the Wisconsin Republican at the afternoon session.

The committee made its decision on the FBI letter after McCarthy charged it would put itself in a "fantastic" position if it refused to read it.

Otherwise, he said, it could not judge the truth of the charge that the document—as he offered it to the recent McCarthy hearing—was "spurious."

May Not Make Statement
The swift windup of McCarthy's defense apparently ended his plan to offer a final windup on how and why he had received the FBI document and why it was important.

McCarthy had said the "letter" showed the Army was guilty of "gross neglect" in handling subversion at Ft. Monmouth, N. J., and had asked permission to make a statement on it.

McCarthy's attorney, Edward Fennett Williams, said after the third morning session that he had completed his evidence unless the committee, on cross-examination, went into subjects not previously covered.

VIENNA, Ill. (UP)—Thomas L. Latham, 31, of Vienna, has been sentenced to 180 years in jail for the slaying of 82-year-old Mrs. Maggie Gray.

Latham pleaded guilty Thursday before Circuit Judge C. Ross Reynolds.

He said he broke into Mrs. Gray's home Aug. 2, and hit her once. Mrs. Gray died 10 days after the beating. An autopsy showed serious chest and other injuries.

Mrs. Gray's granddaughter, Charleen, 18, also was beaten when Latham broke into the house.

Latham escaped from jail here Aug. 31, but surrendered to state police Wednesday.

Ardell Johnson, also of Vienna, was indicted in the murder case on a charge of assault with intent to murder, in the Williamson County Jail at Marion awaiting arraignment.

Latham's brother, Herbert, is under indictment on a burglary charge, and Frank Murrell pleaded guilty to a charge of being an accessory. He was sentenced previously.

Halfway to the mortuary, the hearse driver and his assistant heard "a long sigh." Their pulse stopped briefly when they observed the blankets over Jones moving slightly.

The hearse driver hastily altered his course for the nearest emergency hospital, where Jones was given oxygen and revived.

Hurricane Edna Whips Toward Carolina Coast

May Push into New York, New England Tonight or Saturday

CHARLESTON, S. C. (UP)—Hurricane Edna hurled its 115-mile-per-hour winds toward the Carolina Coast today and threatened the New England Seaboard with its outer gales.

Storm warnings were hoisted as far northward as Portland, Maine, and coastal residents from the Carolinas to the New England States were alerted for possible danger.

The U. S. Weather Bureau at Miami said the powerful storm at 5 a. m. was located 275 miles south of Cape Hatteras, N. C., its apparent target, and was moving northward at nine to 10 miles per hour.

The Weather Bureau predicted it would continue its northward movement for 12 to 18 hours with a possible increase in speed.

Outer gales were expected to reach the Carolina and Virginia coasts this afternoon or early tonight and possibly sweep into New York and New England tonight or early Saturday, weathermen said.

"It looks like it will scoot right up the coast," a Miami weather forecaster said.

Thus far hurricane Edna had followed in the footsteps of Carol, the season's third hurricane, which brushed the Carolinas and then hit New England, where it left 66 persons dead and 300 million dollars damage 10 days ago.

The Boston Weather Bureau said the hurricane "has become a threat" to the Boston area for late tonight and Saturday.

Predict Drought Picture Better Than Month Ago

WASHINGTON (UP)—The government scheduled a new look today at drought damage to this year's farm crops and there were predictions the overall picture would look better than a month ago.

Most trade sources predicted the Agriculture Department's monthly crop production report would show some improvement in yield prospects, chiefly for corn, the key livestock feed grain.

The department last month lowered the estimated corn production this year by almost 500 million bushels to 2,824,078,000, the smallest since 1947. It blamed "searing temperatures and short rainfalls" for the prospective decrease.

With drought losses also heavy in other feed grains, only a big carry-over from previous years kept the total supply of feed stocks "relatively high."

Meanwhile, the department said Thursday that farmers received about $17,000,000 from crop and livestock sales during the first eight months of this year—a drop of 4 per cent from the same period last year.

Chicago Jeweler Loses $35,000 in Burglary

CHICAGO (UP)—Burglars broke into Kravetz jewelers, a combination currency exchange and jewelry store, during the night and escaped with probably $35,000 in cash, jewelry and checks, it was discovered today.

The subsidy will run around 3 or 4 cents a half pint. Most schools now sell milk for about 6 cents a half pint, a department official said.

WASHINGTON (UP)—The government will soon set in motion a program to pay millions of dollars in compensation to Korean war prisoners—or their next of kin—who suffered hardships at the hands of the Reds.

Commissioner Pearl Carter Pace of the Foreign Claims Settlement Commission said applications for the payments will start going out within the next few weeks. The applications will go to the former prisoners or to the next of kin if the prisoner has died.

Johnson, ranking Democratic member of the special Senate committee which has been hearing charges against McCarthy, had been challenged by McCarthy on grounds that he might not be impartial in the case.

Lodge Takes Up Recent Downing Of Naval Plane

Says Acts, If Left Unchallenged, Danger To Peace of World

By RICHARD WITKIN
United Press Staff Correspondent

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (UP)—The United Nations Security Council today took the recent Soviet destruction of an American naval plane was part of a "pattern of unprovoked attacks" which, if unchallenged, might endanger world peace.

American Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. strongly criticized the Russians for refusing to take part in peaceful negotiation of claims resulting from a whole series of post-war plane incidents.

Lodge, using moderate language and tone, gave a blow by blow account of the most recent incident—the shooting down of a P2V naval patrol plane by two Soviet MIGs over the Sea of Japan last Saturday.

His version challenged, point by point, an account given shortly before by Soviet Delegate Andrei Y. Vishinsky, who made a vain attempt to bar council debate on the issue. Vishinsky was voted down, 10-1.

Follow Treaty Agreement
Lodge disclosed that the Neptune was on a flight that is made daily from Japan to obtain weather reports, and to watch for ship, plane and submarine movements in the Western approaches to Japan. He said such operations, made in "defense of Japan," are conducted in accord with the U. S.-Japan Security Treaty of April 28, 1952.

Lodge charged Soviet MIGs dived at the Neptune out of the sun "without warning," that the Neptune did not fire until after the MIGs made a second pass, and that the Russians sent no challenging signals "visually or by radio."

Vishinsky had reiterated Soviet charges that the Neptune flew over Soviet territory and was the first to open fire. The Soviet government has rejected two direct American protests seeking punishment of those responsible for the attack and requesting measures to avoid a repetition.

Lodge said the U. S. viewed the problem with "greatest concern." He listed six previous incidents in which Soviet planes attacked American aircraft and added:

"These details are presented not merely to emphasize the needless and tragic loss of American lives and of American property which resulted from these attacks. It is the pattern of unprovoked attacks which is of greatest importance."

"These Soviet actions show a continuing disregard for the generally accepted standards of international conduct. This is very disturbing to the American government and to the American people."

The American delegate said Soviet planes, in recent times, also have attacked planes of Sweden, Great Britain, France and Belgium. He expressed America's readiness to submit its claims for damages in the latest incident, in which one crewman was lost, to the International Court of Justice.

The moderation of Lodge's approach was underscored by the fact that he twice deleted from his prepared text the adjective "santon" in referring to the Soviet action, which he insisted took place more than 40 miles at sea.

Vishinsky grabbed the floor at the opening of debate before Lodge could give this country's bill of charges against the Russians.

Vishinsky, who made his fame as a clever courtroom lawyer in the Soviet purge trials, took advantage of errors in an early U. S. protest over the plane incident to buttress his case for quashing the debate.

Original Protest
He noted that the first U. S. protest to Moscow contended that the U. S. plane never fired a shot and that the clash took place 100 miles east of Vladivostok, which is in fact over Soviet territory.

The U. S. corrected its version on the basis of interviews with the surviving crewmen. Its second protest said the U. S. gunners fired after the MIGs made their first pass at the Neptune and that the clash occurred not due east but southeast of Vladivostok, which would put it over international water.

One American crewman was lost.

DAILY BIBLE THOUGHT

With the Lord there is mercy, and with him is plentiful redemption. — Psa. 136:7.

Mild Spanking

By BRUCE BLOSSAT

The reports finally filed by the Mundt committee on the Army-McCarthy hearings reflected pretty accurately the attitudes shown by the seven members during the inquiry.

There was a majority report submitted by the four Republicans and a minority account from the three Democrats. But two Republicans, Senators Dirksen and Potter, offered individual supplementary statements.

They all managed to agree on some things:

That Senator McCarthy was lax in allowing his counsel, Roy Cohn, to press the Army so hard and so often on the matter of favors for Pvt. G. David Schine.

That Cohn himself went beyond the limits of his office in seeking these favors.

That Secretary of the Army Stevens and Army Counsel John Adams engaged in unwarranted efforts at appeasing McCarthy and Cohn in hope of having them end their public investigation of alleged subversion at Fort Monmouth radar laboratories.

That neither of these men could be censured, however, on the grounds of bad faith or "softness" toward communism.

Right here the investigators parted company. The majority Republicans did not think McCarthy exercised any undue influence in Schine's behalf. Potter, speaking for himself, thought McCarthy in effect gave sanction to what Cohn did. The Democrats felt McCarthy and Cohn both merited "severe censure."

On the subject of Cohn, the majority said he was "unduly aggressive and persistent" in trying to arrange Army favors for Schine. The Democrats said that, without justification, he thought and secured special privileges and preferential treatment for Schine. Potter declared that Cohn used the full power of his committee position to seek such treatment.

The majority said Stevens and Adams failed to use their offices "appropriately." The two Army officials, added the majority, should have protested vigorously at the first sign of improper efforts to influence them.

The Democrats did not use much stronger language in weighing the case of Stevens and Adams.

But Potter said Stevens showed a lack of competency bordering on bewilderment, and that Adams ought to share the blame for "great damage" caused by "compromise and equivocation."

In all these various verdicts, the Potter individual statement appears to stand out as the most balanced, the most sensible and the most courageous. He did not fear to criticize either a senatorial colleague or a Republican administration which he presumably wished to see succeed.

The majority report seems by contrast soft and tame. Millions of viewers saw the proceedings last spring on television, and they will be puzzled that any sequence of events so confusing and degrading as those in the Army-McCarthy story could be appraised in such mild terms as the majority applies.

DREW PEARSON Says: Senator Watkins, Now Arbitrator Of McCarthy, Was Once His Friend; McCarthy Helped Watkins Get Re-Elected; Watkins Has Strict Sense Of Right Or Wrong.

(Editor's Note — Today the Brass Ring, good for one free ride on the Washington Merry-Go-Round, goes to Sen. Arthur Watkins of Utah, chairman of the Senate committee now passing on censure of Senator McCarthy.)

WASHINGTON. — There are some strange paradoxes about the vigorous gavel-pounding of Senator Watkins to keep Joe McCarthy in his place. They point to the probability that Watkins is either a man of extraordinary intestinal fortitude or has suffered extraordinary senatorial nausea at McCarthy's behavior. Or perhaps the explanation is a combination of both.

For the austere Mormon from Utah who now rules against McCarthy was once considered quite a friend of McCarthy. Their associations were the same. Their views, certainly on foreign policy, were the same. And when Watkins faced a tough re-election fight two years ago, McCarthy, sent one of his men to Utah to apply an unfair smear brush to Watkins' opponent. Watkins once even delivered a Senate speech at McCarthy's request.

Furthermore, the senators who have brought the censure charges against McCarthy are no particular friends of Watkins. Flanders of Vermont, though a Republican, travels with an entirely different group of Republicans. The Utah senator is an isolationist, Flanders a believer in international co-operation. Flanders once even twitted Watkins in the Senate restaurant for drinking tea, because tea-drinking is against Mormon church rules. (Watkins replied that it was Mormon tea—namely milk, sugar and hot water.) Watkins also has little in common with Fulbright, the Arkansas Democrat, or Wayne Morse, the Oregon independent, the other two senators who brought censure charges against McCarthy.

However, Watkins does have some strict ideas about right and wrong, plus the ability to reverse himself completely.

A MORMON BISHOP

A bishop in the Mormon church, Watkins is a conscientious, upright, devout man who works at his religion. He neither smokes nor drinks, avoids cocktail parties, once asked the Library of Congress to furnish him with figures on the smoking and drinking habits of the nation, following which he published the fact that Americans were spending $67.22 per capita on liquor, $26.39 per person on tobacco, but only $21.39 on schools. This explains Watkins' vigorous ruling that no smoking will be permitted during meetings of his censure committee.

During his Senate career, Watkins has concentrated on reclamation problems and Indian rights. It is Mormon philosophy that the Indians were originally a Christian people, and Watkins has sought to free them from reservations where he believes they have become human museum pieces on exhibition. He wants them to become full-fledged and independent American citizens.

Most puzzling paradox about Senator Watkins is that in Utah Watkins was head of a Mormon "stake" or region where he put across the same New Deal ideas that he later fought so bitterly in the Senate. At Orem, Utah, he organized a strawberry co-operative and cold-storage plant pretty much on New Deal lines; built a community theatre, and started a system of socialized medicine for dental work on school children which made Utah doctors shiver with apprehension. In contrast, Watkins turned round and helped defeat the late Sen. Elbert Thomas of Utah, another Mormon, on the ground that Thomas favored socialized medicine.

WATKINS CAN REVERSE

In further contrast, Watkins has voted against almost every type of New Deal legislation coming before the Senate. His record can be described as middle-of-the-road, veering to the reactionary — except when Utah interests are at stake. When western wheat first began to pile up in 1947, for instance, Watkins startled his GOP colleagues by proposing that the government buy up the nation's entire wheat crop and apportion it to bakers and other users.

"This would be complete communism in wheat!" exploded Congressman Wolcott of Michigan, amazed at the philosophy of a fellow Republican who hitherto had voted against every type of control.

As a result of similar Republican opposition, the Watkins proposal, needless to say, did not pass.

This ability to reverse himself probably accounts in part for the Spartan manner in which Watkins has been ruling against his old friend Joe.

Both elected to the Senate at the same time, the two have been quite close, probably more friendly than Johnson of Colorado has been friendly to McCarthy. Both, for instance, belonged to the little band of Senate isolationists whom the late Senator Vandenberg of Michigan complained of as upsetting bipartisan foreign policy and giving him his greatest headaches.

Two years ago when Watkins faced a tough re-election fight from Democratic Congressman Walter Grainger of Utah, it was McCarthy who came to the rescue. He sent to Utah Harvey Matusow, an admitted ex-Communist who was used in various political campaigns in an attempt to link Democrats with the Communists. Matusow has since described his tactics as unfair and has recanted. But in Utah in the fall of 1952 he did a most effective job for Senator Watkins, and Watkins, of course, knew it, also knew that Joe McCarthy was responsible.

Watkins even got a $1,000 contribution from McCarthy's Texas friend, Roy Cullen, to help his campaign.

REFUGEE CHAMPION

One year later, however, Watkins found himself in exactly the opposite camp from McCarthy regarding immigration. Reversing his old isolationism, Watkins led the fight for the Eisenhower refugee program.

So, having taken a cold and critical attitude toward his one-time friend during the start of the censure hearings, it's perfectly possible for Watkins to reverse himself. For, intertwined with the strict religious discipline that the senator imposes on his life are some broad streaks of pettiness.

Watkins fought ferociously, for instance, to keep Ray Murock from becoming counsel of the Senate Labor committee, merely because Ray was the brother of Watkins' former political opponent, ex-Sen. Abe Murock of Utah. Watkins also grabbed a bill written by Congressman Francis Walter of Pennsylvania giving American citizenship to 5,000 foreign-born GI's in Korea and put his own name on the legislation.

Walter's bill had already passed the House, but Watkins said: "This is a Republican Congress and we've got to take credit for some of the good legislation that has passed."

So he introduced the "Watkins bill," an identical word-for-word copy of the Walter bill, and under that new title it had to go through the House all over again, thus delaying citizenship for 5,000 GI's in Korea.

GOP Victory in Fall Necessary Says President

Meets with Chairmen Of Rocky Mountain And Midwest States

By MERRIMAN SMITH
United Press White House Writer
DENVER (AP)—President Eisen- hower called again today for the maintenance of Republican control of the House and Senate. He said a GOP victory this fall was neces- sary for the organizational and pro- cedural effectiveness of his admin- istration.

The chief executive met for more than an hour with Republican state chairmen from 19 Rocky Mountain and Midwestern states.

The meeting of the Association of GOP State Chairmen was called to develop basic plans for seeking 38 marginal House seats in the 21- state area. Nineteen of these seats are now held by Democrats and 19 by Republicans.

After the meeting, Mr. Eisen- hower told reporters, "They (the state chairmen) were here to as- sure me that they are working for a Congress that will support me."

"And, of course, you know in our two-party system that means Congress controlled by our party, the Republican Party," he said.

Twomey's Appointment Makes Four Ex-Sheriffs Now Working in the State Safety Department

By DON E. CHAMBERLAIN
SPRINGFIELD, Ill. — Trial of Jack Green, Granite City, and Local Common Laborer's Union 397, also of Granite City and for which Green is business agent, has been set for September 14 before U. S. District Judge J. Leroy Adair. The two are charged with violation of the federal anti-racketeering act by allegedly forcing a contractor to give up a levee repair job by demands for hire of certain persons. The trial will be watched because of a federal nationwide crackdown against labor union officials. In Illinois U. S. grand juries have indicted a number of other business agents who are accused of collection payoffs totalling thousands of dollars. One of the business agents has been indicted on a charge of evading payment of $7,500 in income taxes over a three-year period.

Another ex-sheriff has been appointed to a state executive post, making at least four (all in the safety department) who have received appointments from Gov. William G. Stratton. The new appointee is John J. Twomey, Monmouth, former sheriff of Warren county, who has been named State Fire Marshal, replacing Sanford F. Giles, Oak Park, who resigned.

Twomey's new job is chiefly an investigative one dealing with fire prevention rather than fire protection. He is authorized by law to supervise and direct investigations of suspicious fires whenever he considers it expedient or necessary. The detection of arson and the conviction of arsonists in cooperation with local law enforcement agencies is an important function of Twomey's office.

The other three ex-sheriffs are Fay Murdock, former sheriff of Mercer county; Phil Brown, former sheriff of Iroquois county; and James E. Denney, former campaign county sheriff. Murdock is assistant director of the Safety Department — has supervision over the newly-named fire marshal, over Brown who is state police superintendent, and over Denney, state prison superintendent.

The state is "gradually and progressively buying" access rights on all of its freeways according to Ralph R. Bartelsmeyer, Belleville, chief state highway engineer. Bartelsmeyer disclosed this when asked recently why some property owners have access and others do not, such as the Cahokia Downs Horse race track at East St. Louis which has entrance to parking lots off route 60.

The entrances are said to be only few hundred feet from freeway exits which state "access will not be granted." Edwin A. Rosenstone, director of the State Department of Public Works and Buildings which has supervision over the state highway division says the track is operating under a "temporary permit

What newspapers are saying: Elgin Courier News deplorable plight of elderly persons, who, although not mentally ill, have been sent to institutions such as the Elgin State Hospital and suggests "caring for the aged in foster homes at the community level may be the solution to the problem." Belleville News Democrat criticizes policy of charging admission to state parks. Rock Island Argus favors enactment of legislation by next General Assembly to facilitate the acquisition of rights-of-way for state's proposed toll roads. Alton Evening Telegraph declares proposed senatorial reapportionment amendment to state constitution offers the people of Illinois an opportunity for "getting back under constitutional government."

Harry H. Harrison, the state highways division's chief traffic engineer, estimates that 250,000 animals, reptiles, poultry and game birds are killed each year on 657 primary highway sections which are patrolled by regular maintenance crews. Chickens are the biggest casualties followed in order by rabbits, cats, dogs, possums, squirrels, raccoons, groundhogs and snakes. Another casualty, Harrison said, are highway safety signs which get a brushing from protruding pieces of farm equipment such as corn pickers and hayrakes. Harrison said that after a brush with sign farm equipment the signs cannot usually be read by passing motorists. Such offenses, he said, are punishable by fine up to $300.

Oklahoma Aggies Have Missouri Valley Worried; Texas Tech Is Border's Best

Written for NEA Service
By CLYDE LEE
Head Coach, Houston

HOUSTON, Tex.—(NEA)—Oklahoma A. and M. is given a pre-season edge for the Missouri Valley Conference championship for 14 very good reasons—the 14 lettermen who return from last year's team which shared our tough little loop's title with Detroit.

A 15th reason may turn out to be even more vital than all the others. The Aggies this year will feature a new quarterback, Freddie Myers, who first earned his spurs at Army and is being visualized as one of the great passers in Stillwater history.

To go with him there are Earl Lunsford, a high-stepping fullback who led the circuit in rushing last year, and path-sweeping guard Dale Meinert, not to mention the by-products of a freshman team which walloped Oklahoma's frosh.

Let a couple of question-mark spots resolve themselves, however, and my Houston Cougars won't concede anything. The tackles look vacant with the graduation of Bob Chuoke and Buddy Gillioz, but Jim Blackstone heads a competent group of guards. We're well set at the ends, with a possible great in Ron Emberg, a transfer from Louisiana State.

Quarterback Jimmy Dickey comes up from Tyler Junior College with a fine throwing arm to complement the running of Kenney Stegall and Jack Patterson, among others.

Detroit, last year's co-champ, still looms strong, but new Coach Wally Fromhart will have to dig up a capable quarterback. Joe Beluso is an outstanding guard, with Lee Riley and Bob Burgmeier a pair of fullbacks who can scamper in any company.

There could be a twistier buildup around Wichita, too, with 32 sophomores, sizeable and speedy, pushing the old hands and what's more, giving Jack Mitchell the depth in quality he so sorely missed last year. Neal Sikes is a fine end.

Tulsa will have to go some to match the rest of us, but has a boy to do it in whirlwind halfback Bobby Waugh, whose brother Howard led the nation in ground-gaining two years ago.

Our main worry at Houston is not to get chewed up too much by a couple of Southwest Conference openers—Texas and the Texas Aggies—before running into our own Aggies, from Oklahoma.

Michigan State Tough Despite Loss of Players

(Second in a series of major Midwest football teams.)

By CLAIR BEKHUIS
United Press Sports Writer

EAST LANSING, Mich. (U)—Duffy Daugherty, Michigan State's new head coach, is hoping the formula of team speed and a multiple offense works as well for him as it did for his predecessor.

Daugherty, who stepped into the unenviable job of trying to improve on the record of a predecessor that was almost perfect, is going to use the same formula this year that Biggie Munn used in turning the Spartans into a national football power.

Munn won the Big Ten co-championship and the Rose Bowl game a year ago before becoming athletic director. Daugherty, who stepped up to succeed Munn, will find the record hard to improve upon.

Eight of the starters from last year are gone. Most of Munn's staff has moved on to other jobs also. But Daugherty isn't worried about either the whisperings that the Spartans are due for a fall or that they are heading for another championship.

"We'll win or lose on the football field, not on the pre-season doc sheets," he said.

Even with eight starters gone, Daugherty still inherited a wealth of material.

Co-captain LeRoy Bolden will be back. He was a member of the "pony" backfield which ran opponents ragged from such varied formations as the single wing, double wing, split-T, winged-T and short punt last year.

Other Standouts

To go along with Bolden, Daugherty has letterman Jerry Planitsky back at fullback, a brilliant passer in quarterback Earl Morrill and several players who promise to be real stars—Johnny Matscek, who has looked dangerous either at quarterback or right halfback, and Travis Buggs, 180-pound junior whose passing at quarterback has impressed coaches in drills so far.

In building another fast-moving line, a Michigan State trade-mark, Daugherty said he won't have a lineman weighing more than 200.

He has two excellent receivers available at end in Rose Bowl hero Ellis Duckett and co-captain Don Kaub. At the tackle he has two lettermen, Randy Schreckengost and Roland Dotsch, and at guards he has lettermen Ferris Hallmark and Hank Bullough. Daugherty rates Bullough his "best, all-around lineman."

Stock Car Racing Tonight

The Egyptian Stock Car association will stage another racing program at the Saline County Speedway this evening, with time trials set for 8 p. m. and racing thirty minutes later.

This will mark the second program under the sponsorship of the Egyptian association, which has in its membership some of the best known stock car drivers in southern Illinois.

During the past weeks there has been racing at the fairgrounds with the Illinois-Missouri association in charge, but drivers from that group have joined with the Egyptian, assuring a bigger and better field of drivers.

Among the drivers that are known to local fans expected to be here tonight are Bill Hazel and Doc Heilig, both Harrisburg residents, Cliff Roland, Howard Meacham and Bobby Bain. It is hoped twenty-five to thirty cars will be present.

Bill Shetter, who has done lots of driving up north, will also have a car on the track tonight. Shetter will drive a car sponsored by the Gene Ragan Standard Service, who also sponsors the H-3, driven by Heilig.

Veck Still Trying to Get Los Angeles Into Major League

LOS ANGELES, Calif. (U)—Bill Veck today tabbed major league baseball as a "mortal enemy" to come here as soon as the city can get an adequate ball park—and there's the rub.

For although residents in this home of the rave are taking it up hot and heavy for major league representation, they recently killed off a bond issue to build a mammoth civic auditorium that would pay for itself. Passage required a two-thirds majority.

Veck indicated he was afraid the same fate might befall a proposition for enlarging Wrigley Field to a capacity which he said should be around 55,000. He added that there are other ways of getting the needed funds, however, and cited "revenue bond issues" involving private leaders.

Old Guys Help Cleveland Win In The Sport Parade

By OSCAR FRALEY
United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (U)—Three show-worn veterans nobody wanted can be credited today with spelling the winning "difference" for the Cleveland Indians.

The big grays are going to go to the big names if the long-disappointing Indians finally nail down the American league pennant. That means men like Bob Lemon, Mike Garcia, Early Wynn and Al Rosen, which is only right and natural.

But don't overlook a trio of guys named Bob Feller, Vic Wertz and Sam Dente.

They must be regarded as the ones who balanced the scales in favor of the Indians. Naturally, Lemon, Garcia, Wynn, Rosen et al had to play with their usual brilliance. But, then, they did during those second-place Indian finishes of the past three years.

Last Year's Record Cited

Look at last year, as an example. Lemon won 21 games. Garcia took 18 and Wynn captured 17. Rosen won the runs batted in crown and also was the home run champion. The net result: Second place.

So you might begin to wonder how come the Indians are on top as they hammer down the stretch, particularly in view of the fact that the Yankees still are playing great ball.

The answer has to be in the unwanted three—Feller, Wertz and Dente.

Feller, at 36, just came off two poor seasons in a row. It is conceivable that except for his staggering salary, which no other club wanted to shoulder, he would have been peddled. But Feller, Bullet Bob no longer, still is a great competitor. He came right back this year as an extremely effective spot pitcher. His record of 12 important wins against only two defeats proves as much.

Wertz bought from Orioles

Wertz was in the Baltimore doldrums when the season opened. He had lost his timing and it is significant that even the hapless Orioles were ready to let go of the one-time $250,000 beauty in an even deal for a pitcher named Bob Chakales. Vic's first inclination was to be insulted.

"For Chakales and how many other players?" he admits he was prompted to ask.

But he claimed up and, when Cleveland put him on first base for the first time in his career, Vic buckled down to learn the mechanics. He isn't perfect there, and admits it, but it did something for that porous infield.

Dente did, too. He is another of the show-worn veterans who was supposedly on the way out. Sam spent last year at Indianapolis but this year he has been a saving fill in for George Strickland. All of which helped to provide a winning balance.

Nixon Has Great Luck Against Yanks, Detroit

DETROIT (U)—The Detroit Tigers and New York Yankees are keeping pitcher Willard Nixon of the Boston Red Sox in business.

Nixon's four-hit, 8-0 victory over Detroit Thursday was only his 11th win of the season against 11 losses. But he has picked on Detroit for five wins and the Yankees for four.

Joe Coleman Downs Yanks' With One-Hitter as Indians Win; Giants and Cubs Split

By MILTON RICHMAN
United Press Sports Writer

Brother Gilbert, a cleric with an eye for baseball talent, made two contributions to the big leagues — Babe Ruth, who had a big hand in building the famed Yankee dynasty, and Joe Coleman, who may have furnished the clincher to tear it down.

Coleman, the Orioles' No. 1 replacement project, was way out front for "comeback of the year" honors today, particularly after his stirring one-hit 1-0 victory over the Yankees, who dropped 5 1/2 games behind the triumphant Indians.

Clint Courtney, an old Yankee laborer from way back, drove in the only run of the game with a fourth-inning looping single that scored Dick Kryhoski from second base.

It marked the 12th victory of the season for the 32-year-old Coleman, whose Brother Gilbert recommended to Connie Mack of the Athletics in 1940. The dark-haired 200-pound Coleman hurried for the Mackmen from 1946 through 1951, then developed a sore arm which drove him as far down as the Class A Sally League in 1952. But he moved back up to Philadelphia in 1953 and last December, the Athletics wrote him off as a loss by peddling him to Baltimore.

In addition to Thursday's one-hitter, Coleman, a right-hander, has hurled a two-hitter and a pair of three-hitters this season.

The Indians defeated the Athletics, 5-4 in 11 innings for their 100th victory of the year.

Cleveland had to come from behind to tie the game with two runs in the eighth and one in the ninth, then won it when reserve catcher Hal Naragon walked with the bases full in the 11th. Ed Bertsch served up the pass to Naragon and was tagged with the loss while Hal Newhouse, the fourth Tribe hurler, gained the victory. Dave Pope homered for the Indians while Bill Wilson did likewise for the Athletics.

Chuck Stobbs pitched a three-hitter to pace the Senators to a 2-0 victory over the White Sox. Loser Harry Dorish also allowed three hits, but two of them were homers by Roy Sievers and Jim Lemon.

Red Sox Blank Tigers, 8-0

The Red Sox rapped Al Aber for four runs in the third inning and went on to defeat the Tigers, 8-0, with the aid of homers by Harry Agganis and Jim Piersall. Willard Nixon scattered four hits for his 11th triumph, five of which have been over Detroit and four over New York.

In the National League, where only three games were scheduled, the Cubs salvaged the nightcap of a double-header, 3-0, after the Giants won the opener, 7-6, and Brooklyn shelved St. Louis, 10-1.

As a result, the Giants maintained their four-game lead over the idle Braves but New York's edge in the all-important "lost col-

RUPTURE

Expert Coming
Here Again.

R. K. SHALLENBERGER

Nationally known expert will personally demonstrate his method without charge at the Morning Hotel, Harrisburg, Tuesday evening, Sept. 14, from 5 p. m. to 8 p. m.

Mr. Shallenberger says the Shallenberger method contracts the openings in remarkably short time on the average case, regardless of the size or location of the rupture and no matter how much you lift or strain, and puts you back to work the same day as efficient as before you were ruptured.

The Shallenberger Rupture Shield has no leg strap; water proof, sanitary, practically indestructible and can be worn while bathing. Each shield is skillfully molded and fitted to the parts under heat, which gives a perfect fit and satisfaction.

Large and difficult ruptures following operations especially solicited.

Do not overlook this opportunity if you want gratifying results. Mailing address: Angola, Indiana. —(Adv.)

The Women's Society of Christian Service of the Methodist church met in the church parlor recently for the regular service.

The devotion, "Jesus' Concern for Cities," was given by Edith Forrester.

During the program appropriate music was played by Jo Kathryn Gullidge and Donna Reid at the piano. An excerpt from the book, "Under Three Flags," written by Stephen Neill, was presented by Seava Rodocker.

Claudette Colbert Has Same Bangs She Wore in 1934's 'It Happened One Night'

By ELIZABETH TOOMEY

United Press Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK (AP)—In these days of changing frontiers and vacillating headlines it is comforting to come across a successful woman who has stuck by the same hair cut for 20 years.

Remember those bangs Claudette Colbert had when she won the Academy Award in 1934 for "It Happened One Night"? She's still got 'em.

While the rest of us have struggled through bouffants with page boys, poodle cuts, pony tails and pompadours, Miss Colbert has been snipping her own bangs quietly and steadily. She cuts her own hair.

They have seen her through seven roles and motherly parts. She has proven, along with another famous bangs wearer now in the White House, that one hair style can bridge several eras in a woman's life.

"Sloppy Shingle"

"I call it a sloppy shingle," Miss Colbert said and laughed. She had just left a television rehearsal studio and ambled down a midtown Manhattan street for lunch. She looked surprisingly little different than she did in the early days of her famous hairdo. A passing taxi driver called out, "Hi, Claudette," and the waiter in the French restaurant greeted her with a surprised smile followed by a torrent of French. She was born in France.

Miss Colbert is here to make her dramatic debut in television and perhaps to change her mind about a television series. She'll appear, bangs and all, in a full-color television broadcast opening the CBS "Best of Broadway" series Sept. 15.

"I had a theory that to see an actress every week wasn't good," she explained. "But it's proven successful for others; so I must be wrong."

If she does the TV series, she'll play the part of a widow with a 15-year-old daughter. In the live drama next week Miss Colbert plays the mother of a grown daughter, Nancy Olson, while Helen Hayes plays the grandmother.

"Where else but in television would I get a chance to play in the same cast with Helen Hayes?" the husky-voiced actress said with a pleased sigh.

BITTER SAGE

Gorey glowered at Kinnaird, but uncertain of his ground, decided to appeal to a higher authority. He left the courthouse to ask Jacob Fugger. But that worthy had already been informed of what had happened and was coming toward the courthouse.

He encountered Kinnaird coming out. "You can't arrest Hong Kong Smith," he cried.

"Maybe I can't," said Kinnaird, grimly, "but I did. I had to crack him over the head."

Fugger cried out in horror. "There'll be trouble over this."

"For Smith. When he sobers up, I'm taking him before the judge."

Fugger brightened for an instant, but then looked suspiciously at Kinnaird.

"What judge?"

"The only judge in the county — Judge Kraft!"

Fugger winced. "Kinnaird, I'll give you 10 minutes to cool off. Then I'll be back."

"Better come with a gun," warned Kinnaird.

Fugger whirled away. He went straight to McCoy's Saloon. McCoy was bitter about Smith. "He took a shot at me."

"He didn't hit you."

"It wasn't his fault that he didn't. He put a bullet through the bank window, among other things."

Fugger grimaced. "We've got to overlook what he's done. We — we need him and his business."

"I suppose we do, but how far can we let a man go?"

Fugger suddenly bared his teeth. "I'm not going to argue with you, McCoy." He looked a round. "Where's Eric Stratemeyer?"

McCoy looked toward a room at the rear. "Sleeping."

"Wake him up."

McCoy hesitated but went toward the office at the rear. He found Stratemeyer awake. "What's the racket about?" the faro dealer asked.

"Fugger wants to talk to you."

Stratemeyer followed McCoy into the saloon.

"You said Fugger, 'I want you to go down to the jail and get Hong Kong Smith out.'"

Stratemeyer fixed Fugger with a cold look. "I haven't had much experience breaking people out of jail."

"Now, don't you go making trouble," Fugger complained. "I've had enough. I brought you here to town."

"Let's get things straight," Stratemeyer said. "You sent for me to do one particular job — get rid of a man named Bailey. He's skipped town. Maybe I scared him out, maybe I didn't."

"I'm not worried about that now."

"All right, you've got another job? You'll pay me $1000?"

Fugger swallowed hard. "You drive a hard bargain."

"They tell me you do, too," retorted Stratemeyer. "You want me to gun the sheriff?"

Fugger hesitated. "I'll let you know later."

"You do that, Mr. Fugger. In the meantime, would you mind sending over the $1000 you already owe me?" Stratemeyer smiled, a cold smile that sent a chill running through Fugger. He nodded and virtually ran out of the saloon.

On the street he encountered Manny Harpending and three or four Texas men. "Harpending," Fugger called. "If you're looking for your boss, he's in jail."

"Who — who had the nerve to do that?"

"The sheriff. I asked him to turn Smith loose, but he said no Texas men could take Smith away from him."

"We'll see about that!" cried one of the Texans.

Inside of 20 minutes, a score or more of Texas men marched on the jail. Kinnaird, pale but determined, met them at the door.

"Don't do anything foolish, men!"

"We're gonna take your jail apart if you don't turn old Hong Kong loose in 30 seconds," shouted one of the men.

Kinnaird drew his gun. He was ready to make an issue of it and then Marshal Gorey appeared in the doorway behind him. Kinnaird, hearing his step, started to turn and a Texas man close by sprang upon Kinnaird and smashed him on the head with his gun.

A roar went up and the Texans charged the jail, trampling and kicking Kinnaird as they swarmed over him. Gorey made no resistance and inside of a minute, Hong Kong Smith, only half-conscious, was brought out.

The mob paid no attention to Kinnaird, but when they left the jail, Kinnaird picked himself up, bleeding and bruised.

Tancred rode steadily through the night, until nearly dawn, when he staked out his horse on the prairie. Using his carpetbag for a pillow, he stretched out to sleep on the buffalo grass.

Hours later he awakened and was soon in the saddle. He rode steadily all that day to the east and north and the following morning cut the stage trail. He followed it till late afternoon, when he crossed a shallow stream and sighted the stage station at Turkey Crossing. He asked the agent for something to eat.

The supper was plain, but substantial, and Tancred who had not eaten for two days was grateful. When he had finished he walked outside and, after a moment, found himself heading for the little mound of earth back of the station, where Laura Vesser's father was buried. (To Be Continued)
